Equal sized constituency maps

The maps below show all 650 constituencies in the UK at equal size. This corrects for the disproportionate weighting of constituencies in ordinary geographic maps - for example, densely-populated urban constituencies are shown as much smaller than sparse rural constituencies, even if they have the same population. This map provides an alternative presentation of the data which isn't affected by these factors. Note that while geography is roughly respected, individual constituencies on this map may not be precisely where you would expect.

Introduction

The 2017 UK General Election

The 2017 UK Parliamentary General Election was held on Thursday 8th June 2017. The election was called early, under Section 2(1) of the Fixed-term Parliaments Act 2011, having not been expected until 2020. Voting was held in 650 constituencies across the UK: 533 in England, 59 in Scotland, 40 in Wales and 18 in Northern Ireland. There were no changes to constituency boundaries, meaning that the constituencies were identical to those in the previous, 2015 General Election.¹

The election resulted in a hung Parliament, with no single party having an overall majority.² The Conservative Party, led by Prime Minister Theresa May, won the largest number of seats and votes, taking 317 seats and 42.3% of the vote across the UK.³ The Labour Party, led by Jeremy Corbyn, won 262 seats, and 40.0% of the vote, up from 232 seats and 30.4% of the vote in 2015. The Conservatives' share of the vote is the highest for any single party since the 43.2% won by Labour in 1997, and their total of 13.6 million votes is the second highest total in UK electoral history.

General Elections in the UK are held using a "First past the post" voting system, with the candidate receiving the greatest number of votes in each constituency winning that seat. There is no requirement for a majority of votes to be won.

As in 2015, the Scottish National Party (SNP) is the third-largest party in the Commons, winning 35 of the 59 seats it contested and taking 36.9% of the Scottish vote, down from 56 seats and 50.0% of the vote in Scotland in 2015. Plaid Cymru won 4 of the 40 seats in Wales and 10.4% of the Welsh vote, compared with 3 seats and 12.1% of the vote in 2015.

The Liberal Democrats won 12 seats and 7.4% of the UK vote, compared with eight seats and a 7.9% vote share in 2015, but below the Party's recent highest totals of 62 seats and 22% of the vote in 2005.

The UK Independence Party (UKIP) lost the only seat it had won in 2015, and saw its share of the vote fall from 12.6% to 1.8%. UKIP had candidates in 317 seats in 2017, down from 624 candidates in 2015. The Green Party retained its single seat (Brighton Pavilion), but saw its UK-wide vote share fall from 3.8% in 2015 to 1.6% in 2017.

In Northern Ireland, the Democratic Unionist Party (DUP) won 10 seats, gaining two; Sinn Féin won seven,⁴ gaining three; and one Independent (Lady Sylvia Hermon) retained her seat. The Ulster Unionist Party and Social Democratic & Labour Party lost all their seats, and it is likely that no Irish Nationalist will sit in the House of Commons for the first time since the 1960s.

¹ Unless otherwise stated, all comparisons to the previous election are to the 2015 General Election, ignoring subsequent by-elections in individual constituencies.

² 326 seats would be required for a theoretical majority, although in practice this number may vary.

³ The figures for the Conservatives exclude the Speaker. The Speaker is counted as a Conservative by some media sources, based on his previous party affiliation.

⁴ In line with their policy of abstentionism, Sinn Féin are not expected to take their seats.

Turnout

Turnout⁵ was 68.7%, up from 66.3% in 2015, and the highest general election turnout since 1997. The total registered electorate was 46.8 million, up from 46.4 million in 2015. The largest change in turnout was among the 18-24 age group - according to a post-election Yougov poll,⁶ turnout among this age group was 58%, up from 42% in 2015.

Each candidate standing is required to submit a £500 deposit, which is returned if the candidate receives 5% of the total votes cast in the constituency. In the 2017 election 1,568 candidates lost their deposit, representing 47.4% of all candidates standing.

High Profile Losers / Returners

Several high-profile former MPs lost their seats, including former Liberal Democrat leader and Deputy Prime Minister Nick Clegg (Sheffield Hallam), the SNP's Westminster leader Angus Robertson (Moray) and former SNP leader and Scottish First Minister Alex Salmond (Gordon). Nine serving Government Ministers lost their seats, including Jane Ellison (Battersea), Gavin Barwell (Croydon Central) and Ben Gummer (Ipswich).

551 MPs retained their seats in the election, and 87 new members were elected. A further 12 former MPs returned to the House after not serving immediately prior to the election. These include former Secretary of State Sir Vince Cable (LD, Twickenham), and previous Ministers Esther McVey (Con, Tatton) and Jo Swinson (LD, East Dunbartonshire).

Characteristics of those elected

208 women (32% of the total) were elected – the greatest number ever. According to the British Future⁷ think-tank a total of 12 MPs from a black and minority ethnic background were newly-elected, taking the total to 52 (8% of all MPs).

The oldest elected MP was Dennis Skinner (Lab, Bolsover), aged 85. The youngest, at age 22, was Mhairi Black (SNP, Paisley and Renfrewshire South). The MP with the longest continuous service (the Father of the House) is Kenneth Clarke (Con, Rushcliffe), who has 47 consecutive years of service since 1970. With the defeat of David Winnick (Lab, Walsall North), there are no remaining MPs who served in Parliament during the 1960s.

Full and summary election results are available to download from the Commons Library 2017 General Election page.

⁵ Turnout is defined as the proportion of the registered electorate who cast a valid vote. Spoiled, or otherwise invalid votes are excluded from turnout calculations.

Labour Vote Shares

Scottish National Party

The SNP gained the most votes and seats of any party in Scotland, although its total votes were down almost a third compared with the 2015 election.

The Party won 35 seats, 21 fewer than in 2015. Prominent MPs who lost their seat included Angus Robertson and Alex Salmond.

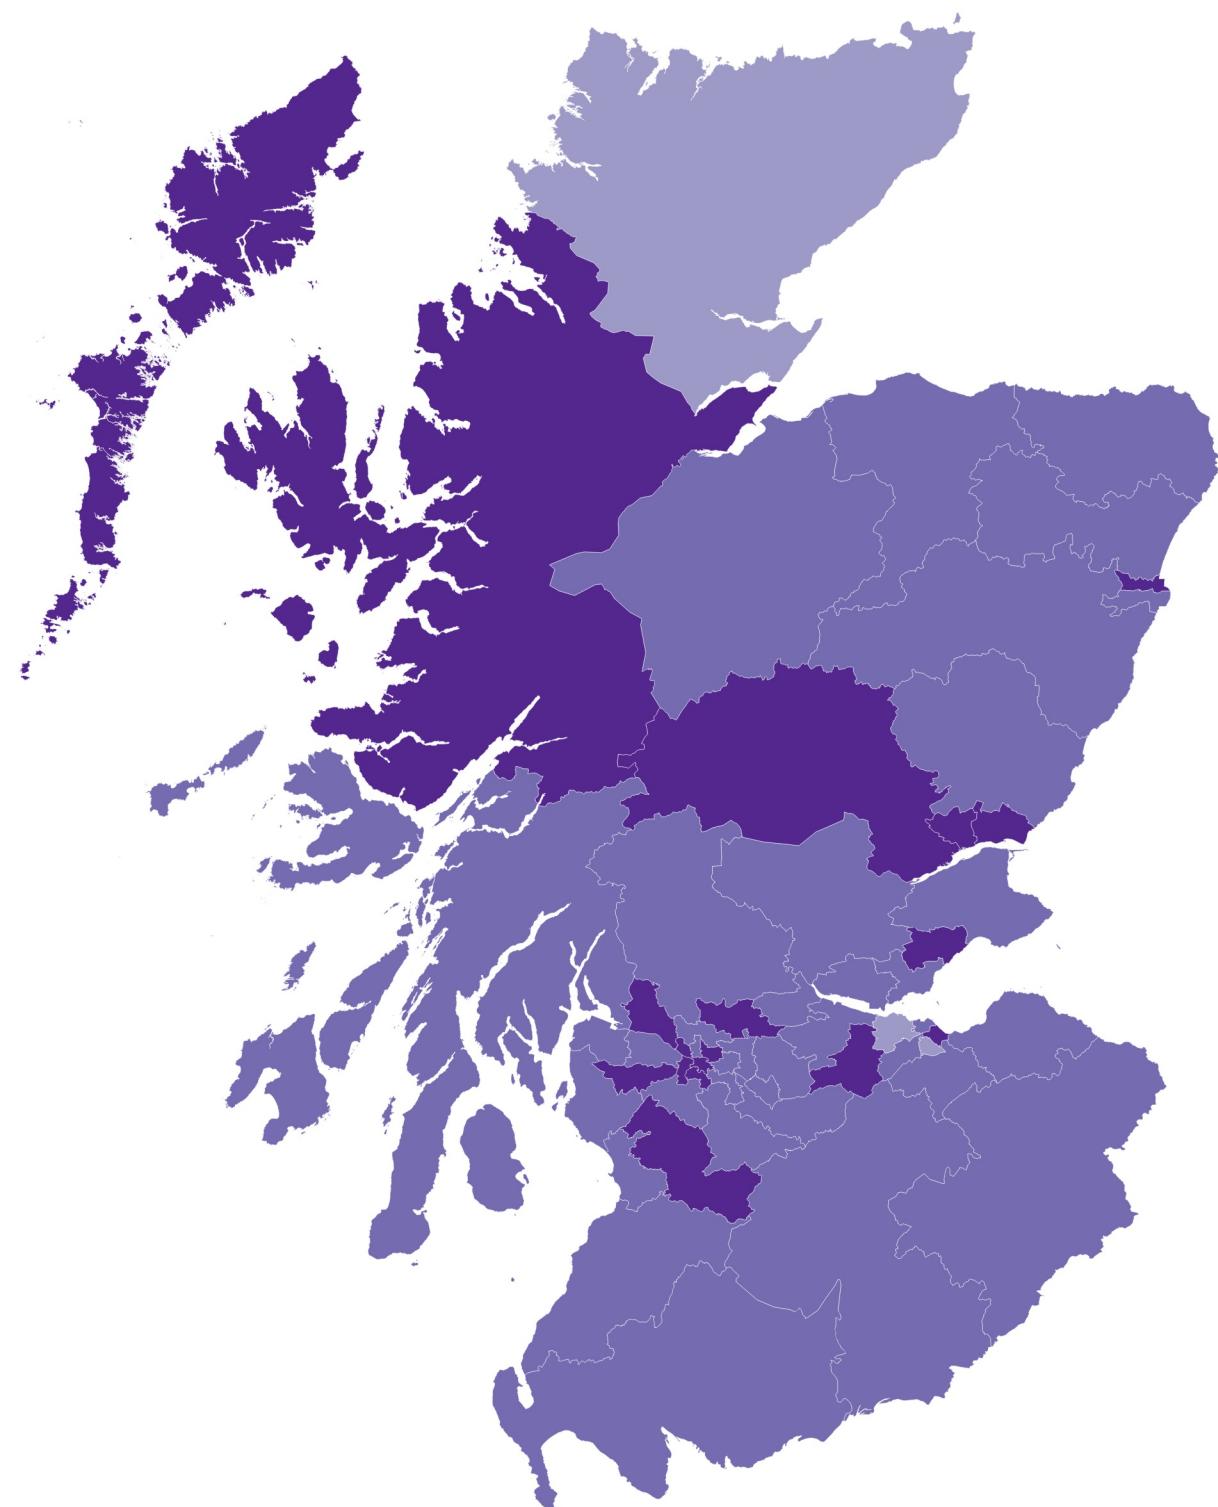

The SNP's 36.9% vote share was down 13.1 percentage points on 2015, although this still represents their second highest share of the vote in any General Election. The Party's share of the vote decreased in all 59 constituencies.

Plaid Cymru

Plaid Cymru won fewer votes and a lower vote share in Wales than at the 2015 election.

However, the Party gained one seat, Ceredigion, and retained the three seats it already held. This is the first time since 2001 that Plaid Cymru has won four seats.

Its majority in Arfon was reduced to 92 after a substantial swing towards Labour.

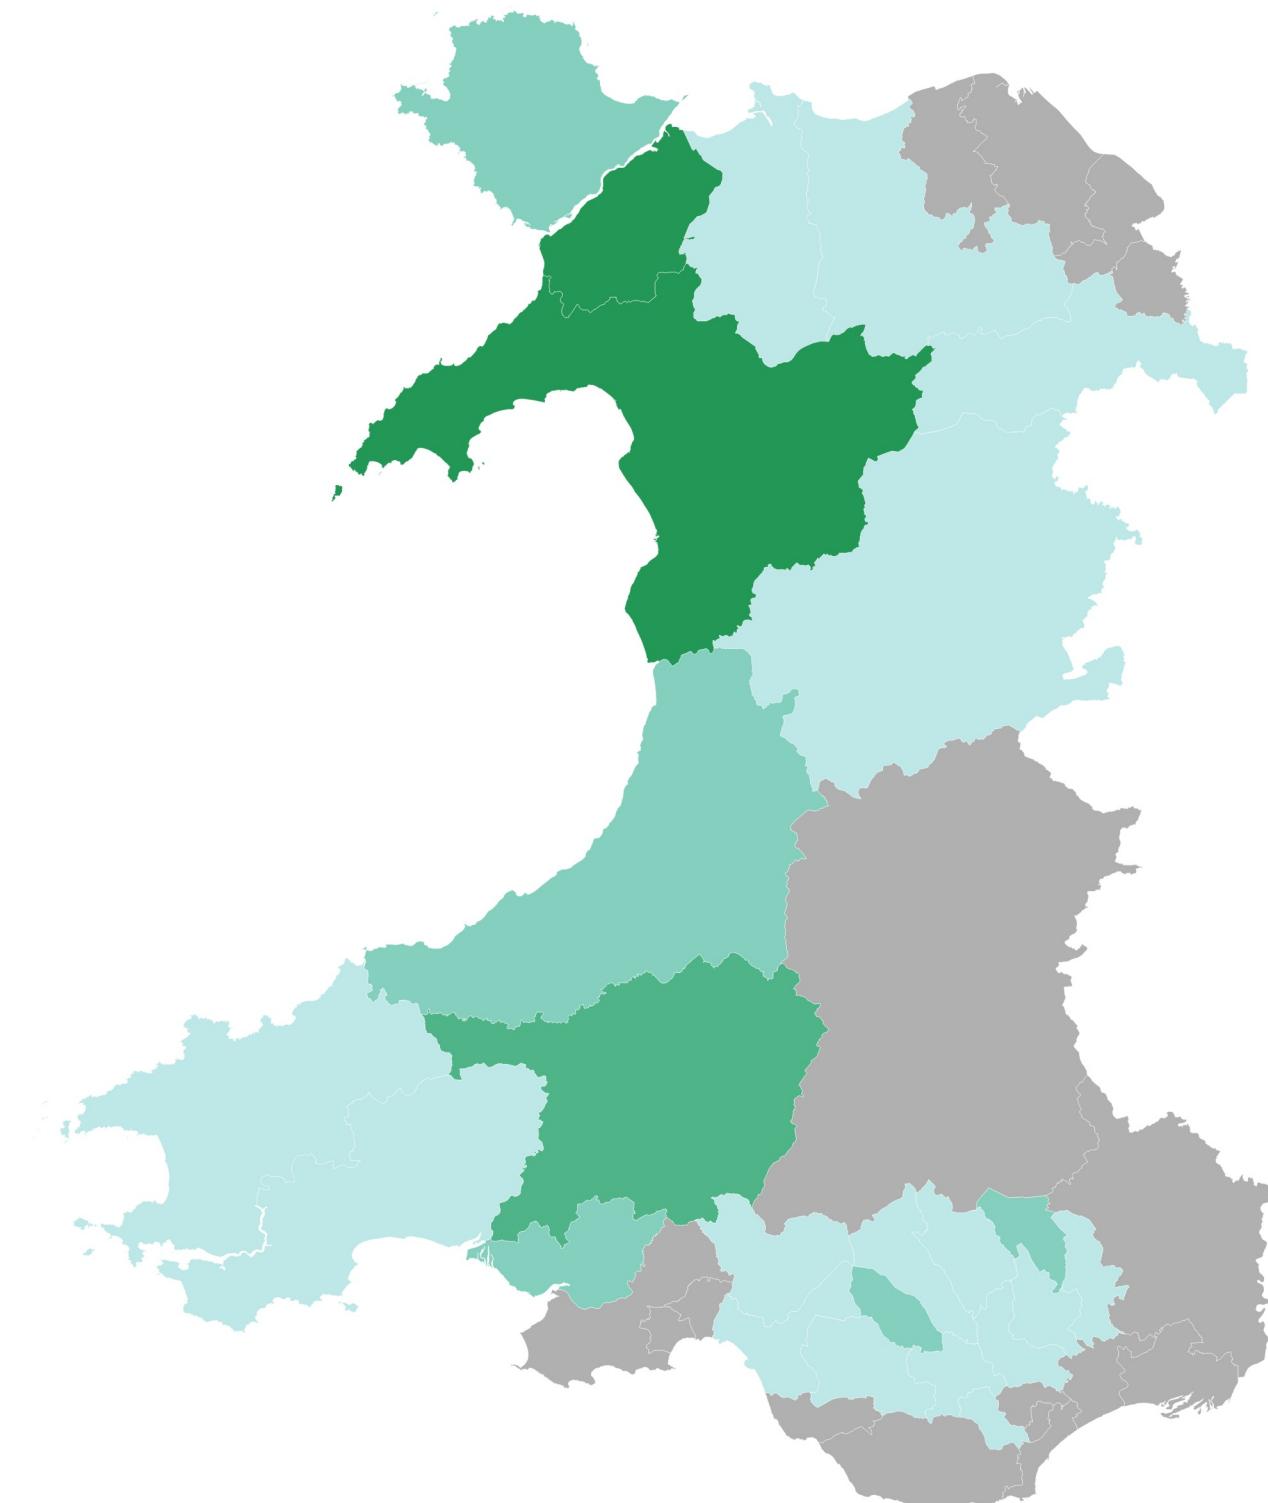

Although Plaid Cymru gained Rhondda from Labour in the 2016 Welsh Assembly elections, its share of the vote in the constituency was down 4.7 percentage points from 2015.

About the Library

The House of Commons Library research service provides MPs and their staff with the impartial briefing and evidence base they need to do their work in scrutinising Government, proposing legislation, and supporting constituents.

As well as providing MPs with a confidential service we publish open briefing papers, which are available on the Parliament website.

Every effort is made to ensure that the information contained in these publicly available research briefings is correct at the time of publication. Readers should be aware however that briefings are not necessarily updated or otherwise amended to reflect subsequent changes.

If you have any comments on our briefings please email papers@parliament.uk. Authors are available to discuss the content of this briefing only with Members and their staff.

If you have any general questions about the work of the House of Commons you can email hcenquiries@parliament.uk.
